Baker Engineers Submit Completed Arterial Highway Report To City

A circumferential system of state highways north and south of Salem is recommended by Michael Baker Jr., consulting engineers of Rochester, Pa., in the final arterial highway report which was submitted today to Salem city officials.

None of the recommendations is new since they were covered in a preliminary report submitted previously to City Council, but the final report of the arterial highway survey pin-points the various projects by stages of construction. Will Make Final Study

Council, the Planning Commission and Mayor Dean Cranmer are expected to meet soon to make a final thorough study of the report.

Designed to provide maximum traffic relief on existing streets, the proposed highways to the north and south of the city also are expected to lend themselves to the future growth of the community.

Completion of the south bypass and construction of a new north thoroughway would remove Routes 62, 45 and 14 from the city proper.

The improvements would be done by stages, according to the Baker Engineers' recommendations.

Stage one would involve the improvement of existing streets within the downtown area by the removal of curb parking and changes in traffic control lights; also, by designating certain recommended streets as one-way.

Responsibility Of City

Costs of this stage of the improvement will depend on the amount of off-street parking required. This stage will be the responsibility of the city alone.

The next project will be the construction of the first link of the north bypass, connecting Route 62 just west of the city on the Damascus Rd. with Route 62 north on the Albany Rd.

of funds by the Ohio General Assembly is awaited momentarily. Stage Three calls for the completion of the Pidgeon Rd. bypass south of Salem, connecting the Lisbon Road (Route 45) with Route 32 at the Damascus Rd. Two thirds of this route already is done, the road having been widened and improved from the Lisbon Rd. to the Newgarden Rd. several years ago.

Freight Train Derails at Kensington

SCENES AT DERAILMENT. These photos by Tom Roser, Salem News photographer, show how the unexplained derailment at Kensington Friday afternoon up-ended freight cars and sent others tumbling down an embankment along the right-of-way. No one was hurt.

Twenty-three cars of a west-bound Pennsylvania freight train were derailed at Kensington Friday afternoon about 2:30. No one was injured.

The cars tumbled down the embankment from the railroad track toward a small stream. Tons of coal scattered over a wide area and quickly received a white blanket from the snow that was falling.

H. M. Phillips, regional manager for the railroad, said today that an investigation is underway to determine the cause of the derailment.

The 92-car freight was westbound from Conway, Pa., to Crestline, O. At the time of derailment, part of the train was rolling on the overpass in Kensington. The derailment occurred several hundred yards west of the overpass.

The tracks have been cleared and traffic resumed.

Cars which could be moved were re-railled and the others which were too badly damaged were shoved aside. They will be moved out Monday, Phillips said.

Damage will run into thousands of dollars, but no estimate of total damages has been made.

Bible Words for Today

I JOHN 3:10 - "By this it may be seen who are the children of God, and who are the children of the devil: whoever does not do right is not of God; nor he who does not love his brother." (RSV)

Fellowship with God involves walking in love. If we are born of God, we love people. If we know God, we love for God's very being is love. If we love one another, God abides in us. This is New Testament reasoning.

What is love? "It is a positive force which creates the moral climate in which problems can be resolved."

How do we get it? By God's grace, begin with the aggressive forces within which are enemies of love: self-seeking, pushy greed, wanting our own way, proving we are right. All are like this. Only Christ has power to cleanse these evils and sweep our channels clean. Ask Him to reach out your channel.

How can we use it? "Real love is wanting the best God has for the other person and living so that he finds that best." Our love is meant to be shared. If we hoard it, God withholds it.

When God's love begins flowing through us to others, fact is, we are satisfied. Life - our destiny - seems fulfilled. We were made for that!

This is a test of whether you belong to God or not.

Dr. Ansley Cunningham Moore
Sixth United Presbyterian Church
Pittsburgh, Penn.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The Not-So-Private Eye

A friend of mine once had an unusual job. He spent most of his time in a quiet office reading the books his chief wanted to read. Then, when he finished a particular book, he would type out a neat one-page summary of what he had read and give it to his chief's secretary, who would carefully lay it on that important executive's desk.

This man had no time to read. Someone else had to do it for him!

I write books and often recommend reading various kinds of books, starting with the Bible, in this column. I wonder how many of my readers find time to read.

So many millions of Bibles have been sold in America that it is hard to believe that there is a family without one. Yet often people ple tell me they've never been able to find time to read the whole Book through. Why, each year some enterprising publisher puts out a condensed Bible of one kind or another for such people. Yet many Americans never even finish a condensed version.

And there is no more disconcerting feeling for a best-selling author, who looks at his sales figures and is quite sure everyone must have read his book, than to have someone step up, shake his hand and say, "I've heard so much about your book; I wish I had time to read it."

A NEW YORK FIRM of management consultants, in their house organ, "Management Briefs," have come up with some suggestions which I offer you in an adapted form:

1. Talk less and be more selective in watching TV; you don't have to watch the dull programs.

2. Always carry a book in your bag, brief case or coat pocket.

3. Put a book under your pillow at night; if you can't sleep, read.

4. Wake up 15 minutes earlier every morning, and read.

5. Keep a book handy to pick up and read snatches while waiting for dinner at home or for appointments in the office.

6. Have a book with you when you're waiting for unpunctual people or for meetings to start.

7. Take along your own book to the doctor's or dentist's; why be satisfied with out-of-date magazines?

8. KEEP A BOOK IN the glove compartment of your car in case of traffic jams, repairs or just waiting for someone; a New York doctor has read the Bible over and over just this way.

9. Never go on a trip by train, bus, plane or subway without a book.

10. Never forget that a book in your hand when you want it is worth a whole row of bookcases back home.

That interesting magazine called "The Freeman" points out that one man read all of Gibbon's immortal "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" in the intervals of waiting for his wife to dress to go out for dinner.

In a little more than a week we celebrate Abraham Lincoln's birthday. Books were few and precious when he grew up; he had to walk miles to borrow one. Yet Abe Lincoln found time to read. You can, too.

Collapse Of Tito's Visit Hurts U.S. Aims In Eastern Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The collapse of President Tito's scheduled visit to Washington deals a blow to U. S. policy aims in Eastern Europe. State Department authorities displayed no surprise at the announcement from Belgrade today that the Yugoslav leader, a Communist defiant of Moscow control, had called off the trip to Washington at least for the time being.

The reaction to the plan, among many congressmen and some other groups, had been bad.

Secretary of State Dulles declined immediate official comment.

But Sen. Ellender (D-La.), who had raised one of the first voices in Congress in support of Eisenhower's plan to bring Tito here, expressed "disappointment."

"I hate to see such conditions created that President Tito feels there will not be a favorable atmosphere for a peace conference at this time," Ellender said.

"I am very hopeful that the President will review the invitation later if he thinks it will assist him in finding a solution to world problems."

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) said Tito "is pulling further and further away from Russia," and added:

"It is unfortunate that the climate is such at this time that a conference might prove harmful."

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), urged fellow senators to be as "discourteous" as they can in references to Tito.

In a statement for Senate delivery, apparently prepared before the announcement that Tito would not come here, McCarthy said:

"It is now clear that we who believe that the Tito visit is bad for our country cannot hope to prevail upon the executive department to change its mind about the invitation. Our only hope, it seems, is to raise such a fuss that Tito will decide not to come."

Eisenhower decided many weeks ago to invite Tito here. Plans for the visit were developed without official announcement but word that Tito would be coming to Washington spread around town more than a month ago. Hostility to the idea quickly began to develop.

The invitation was sent because Eisenhower and Dulles consider Tito a symbol of independent communism whose successful defiance of Moscow has done a great deal to keep alive the spirit of freedom and the hope of national independence among the Eastern European countries.

The U. S. government figured that further evidence of its willingness to back up Tito, even though it disapproved his brand of communism, along with other brands, would imply assurance to other Eastern European countries that they can look to the United States for help and understanding if they similarly assert their independence of Soviet rule.

But the United States is put in the position of being unable to have Tito here except under conditions of controversy.

This represents a defeat for Eisenhower policy toward Yugoslavia. It calls into question the future of U. S. aid for Tito. It raises a question mark also over the development of policies toward other European countries.

Chicken Price War Brings Real Bargains

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Two Mobile grocery stores engaged in a chicken price war Friday and housewives wound up with fryers at two cents a pound.

Serda's started selling fryers at 23 cents a pound. Greer's, directly across the street, set its price at 22 cents. Serda's cut to 21 and Greer's to 20. And on it went.

Serda's reported selling 18,000 birds, 7,200 at two cents a pound. Serda's said it sold about 950 fryers, 190 at the lowest price. Both stores sold out.

The management of each grocery said another supply would be on hand today. Neither would say whether prices again would be cut.

Champion Bull Bought By Ohio Breeders

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP)—A champion bull purchased for $20,000 by the Northern Ohio Breeders Co-operative Assn. of Tiffin will arrive here today after a cross-country flight from San Francisco.

"Raven Burke Ideal" commanded the highest price paid for a Holstein bull last year according to Max Drake, NOBA manager.

An outstanding record for producing daughters with high milk capacities accounts for Raven's popularity. On the West Coast he sired 14 tested cows who averaged 16,394 pounds of milk and 592 pounds of butterfat a year.

He was purchased as part of NOBA's artificial insemination program. Raven is expected to breed up to 20,000 cows this year. He will be made available to herds of NOBA's farm families.

Handcuffs, Steering Wheel Trap Girl

Mrs. Roy Fisher returned from shopping to find Donna looped through the wheel like a big pretzel, one wrist fettered to an ankle with her officer-father's handcuffs.

Mrs. Fisher phoned police. The first officer to appear didn't have a key to match the Fisher handcuffs, but the second officer did, and Donna was unbent.

THE MEASURE OF CIVILIZATION

Some folks judge civilization's progress by the kind of houses they live in.

Others point toward the giant strides of science or industry—or the striking advance of music, art, and literature.

Yet civilization is perhaps best measured by the kind of people it produces.

Picture a man who respects the dignity and rights of others, and who looks with compassion on human suffering. He is guided in all things by an abiding love for God. His moral stamina never ebbs. His spiritual courage grows stronger.

Multiply this man by the thousands . . . by the millions . . . and you'll see a civilization higher and greater than has ever existed.

The Church is the one great institution that devotes itself to the development of man's character and spirit. As long as it continues to thrive, we can expect our civilization to flourish and progress. Help extend the influence of the Church—give it your support, make it a part of your life!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

No Objection

The review of U. S. foreign policy in the Middle East voted by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committee should be a success.

The White House has no objection to it, and old-line professionals in the State Department should welcome it.

The most obscure thing about U. S. foreign policy in the Middle East or any other part of the world for the last 11 years is its utter lack of obscurity.

The United States has been clearly the victim of its own uncertainty about the power role in which destiny has cast it. Unlike all the great powers of the past, it had no desire to build an empire or to dominate a group of slave-states. It had no fixed purpose, other than world peace.

Where the British "muddle through" with an eye to the glorious past and the red czars of 20th century Russia "bungle through" with an eye to the revolutionary future, the U. S. State Department tries to read its destiny in the olive leaves of its peace gestures.

Under the Truman administration, it was working with a chief executive who professed to know nothing at the outset about foreign affairs and subsequently reached a point where he thought he knew everything, which was even worse.

Under the Eisenhower administration, it is working with a chief executive who was so conspicuously successful in his military career that his countrymen and even some foreigners impute powers to him he never had — and that John Foster Dulles never had either.

The United States needs a review of foreign policy. It is overdue. If it were done up brown, which would be expecting too much, it would reveal that a country with no ax to grind but peace has a policy that cannot be matched in the long run, even though many of its own citizens may not be able to appreciate the advantages of not wanting to be international top dog today.

Wide Awake

The lower house of Congress now stands nearly six to one in favor of fighting fire with fire in the Middle East, if the Soviet Union commits arson.

The upper house of Congress later will make the same decision. But first its members must prove to themselves and the country that they are wide awake and no one is going to put anything over on them.

Once upon a time, the members of a neighborhood were confronted with a plan for action in case a neighbor down the block who was under suspicion as an arsonist ever went on a rampage.

The plan called for the men to grab blunt instruments to subdue the arsonist as soon as a call for help was heard. It also called for everybody to pitch in to pay for security measures in the form of a neighborhood cleanup campaign-removal of inflammable trash and so on.

There was nothing in the plan that wouldn't have been done anyway, but it started a loud argument. Everybody had to chip in with a dime's worth, to show he was wide awake and keeping track of things.

It was just as well that the arson-minded neighbor who was the cause of it all had never gone on a rampage, or there would have been nothing to talk about. Everybody would have acted first and talked afterward. But by talking first the neighbors hoped they could cool off the firebrand in advance. It was worth a try, which is what Congress will admit after it has duly deliberated.

Mrs. Engine

As far as we are concerned, the high spot of the January news was Mrs. Charles E. Wilson's defense of her much-criticized husband.

His latest blooper — the one about the National Guard — may not be his worst, but it caused President Eisenhower to say in a press conference that his secretary of defense had been "unwise." And that caused Mrs. Wilson to speak out in the manner of devoted wives from the Year I when their husbands were getting the worst of it.

Mrs. "Engine Charley" Wilson thinks:

1. Her husband has done a good job in Washington, along with other members of the Cabinet who get nothing for their efforts, but dead cats in the face.

2. She should not keep her mouth shut any more because her husband deserves a pat on the back instead of another kick in the teeth.

3. Her husband is blunt but being blunt is no crime as long as the truth is being served — and her husband sticks to the truth.

4. In brief, President Eisenhower should share some of his praise for John Foster Dulles with Charles E. Wilson when he stands between his cabinet members and the yapping dogs of politics.

We think so too, along with thinking that Mrs. Engine has issued a reminder that Cabinet members and their wives must get fed up with being pilloried in Washington and long to be back on the criticizing end of government.

Religion In And On The Job

Dead-Center Dilemma

By EUGENE CARR

When you think back to the early days of the automobile and the old fashioned handcrank, the modern day starter is a wonderful thing. A turn of the ignition key and, swish, you are on your way. That is, until one day you turn the key and nothing happens. You are on dead center.

Everything about your car is in good running condition except a tiny motor that works your starter. It rests quietly under the hood, poised on a point of inaction, waiting for an extra push to tip it off balance and set it in motion.

Some lives are like that. Circumstances appear to be just right for a successful, useful existence. Prosperity and opportunity loom large, and according to accepted measures, life should be full and complete.

But, too often, each day is a dilemma. Worthy purposes become lost and good intentions are compromised, all because there is no clear-cut decision as to what life is meant to be. The overall mechanism is frustrated by conflicts of interest and ill-conceived ambitions.

Such a life is a floundering life. It wallows in fear and suspicion, laden down by lost motion, wasted skills, and a guilt-stricken conscience. Repeated moves, often foolhardy and desperate, fail to shake off a feeling of inadequacy and failure, and only serve in the long run to deepen and aggravate the situation.

It need not be. There is no good reason to remain stalled on dead center, tempted first one way and then the other between the vital points of decision. A complete overhauling is not necessary, for the main trouble lies not in the whole of life but in the "starter-motor." It needs only the extra push that the power of God can give it to tip its balance in the right direction.

This extra push is available to us at all times, but we must have faith in it and call on it. Then life will take on a new conviction and become decisive. There will be no shifting of purpose, no confusion of meaning. The course will be straight and true and reliable, and the way swift and sure.

Fortunate, indeed, is the person who has arrived at such a conviction, who knows where he stands with God, who knows what kind of person he wants to be. There is no gamble in the decision for no one actually prefers to be caught on the dead center of aimlessness.

But the conviction must be strong and enduring, and strong and enduring convictions are not easy to arrive at and are less easy to maintain. Sometimes, we need more than the power of a tiny "starter-motor." Sometimes, we need the old fashioned "handcrank."

Cross Currents In Prices

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Cross currents in prices and demand are running through the metals industries today—and in turn eddying through the stock market.

Steel scrap prices tumble while finished steel product prices continue to edge higher. Demand for some steel products holds strong as ever, while for others it softens.

Copper men cite a wide gap in prices asked for the metal around the world while producers' supplies pile up. And copper product makers worry over a drop in new orders. Prices soften for copper and scrap and for brass and bronze ingots.

Aluminum supply at last catches up with demand and its makers seek new markets and new uses. Lead and zinc look largely to Uncle Sam's stockpiling purchase to hold them firm.

Most steelmen insist that 1957 will be a good year for them. Production has been holding near capacity for months and total orders seem to indicate it will for some time to come.

Copper men point out that over the years copper has usually followed the trend in steel—since they share many of the same customers, such as autos, appliances, construction. And the copper men say that the present lull for them could be short lived.

But both steel and copper men watch the scrap market as a frequent good barometer. Often when scrap prices turn soft, metal production may be in for some slackening.

Steel mills have been watching mostly the drop in demand for their product by the auto companies. Like the car makers they are waiting to see how strong is the traditional spring-rise in demand for autos.

Disturbed by report of slackening demand for distant deliveries, stock traders have been bidding down shares prices of some metals firms.

There has been no slackening in demand reported for structural steel or for the heavy plates that go into ship building and freight car building. Announced plans for continued business spending on expansion and plans for still more office buildings hearten this segment of the steel industry.

These plans and the expansion program of the electric utilities are cited by the copper men as assuring them a fair market, even if the auto and appliance industries don't perk up as much in the spring as hoped.

Christmas Flashback

By TRUMAN TWILL

While suffering comfortably beneath an electric blanket which was a Christmas present of several years ago, I began to think about the pyramids, mountains, oceans and forests of stuff that moves into ownership each December and finds its place in the order of things.

The thinking was stimulated by looking at a pre-Christmas edition of The New Yorker, a magazine that takes second place to none in appealing to the potential purchaser of gifts for men and women who already have almost everything.

Maybe nobody bot 'em, but in this issue a necklace for $63,800 and a pair of ear-rings of similar design for $28,600 were suggested as an easy way out of the Santa Claus dilemma.

Baubles like these, with mink coats that could be worn on top of them, were a million a dozen in this edition. But what really took the eye was the staggering variety of stuff in the stink and stinko liquid and goops to be rubbed on and off and exotic potions to be sipped and guzzled.

Every year during December, all this stuff moves out of the pipelines of supply into ownership—and it really is something to think about. What happens to it? According to the bright promises dangled in the advertisements, January should be the most exciting month in the year because then all these new ownership items should show their effect.

The exotic perfumes, the baubles, the gimmicks and everything else the human heart is supposed to desire should be at work. We should all be happy as larks. Every woman should have a bevy of devoted admirers. Every man should be in the pink, with a bevy of devoted admirers, too.

We should be mellow and comfy. Gracious living should be at its peak. The nights should be filled with gladness and the days with good fellowship.

But it is not so. January continues to be what it always has been—a time that tries men's souls and makes women wonder seriously about the whichness of whatness.

One will get you five that even the babe or babes who got the $63,800 necklace and the $28,600 ear-rings are having their discon-solate moments this January along with the rest of us who merely cached a w a y sox, blankets, liquor, gimmicks and goops.

Materialism is not what it is cracked out to be in the Christmas season. Except for an occasional item like an electric blanket that furnishes solace in an emergency, the idea doesn't pan out.

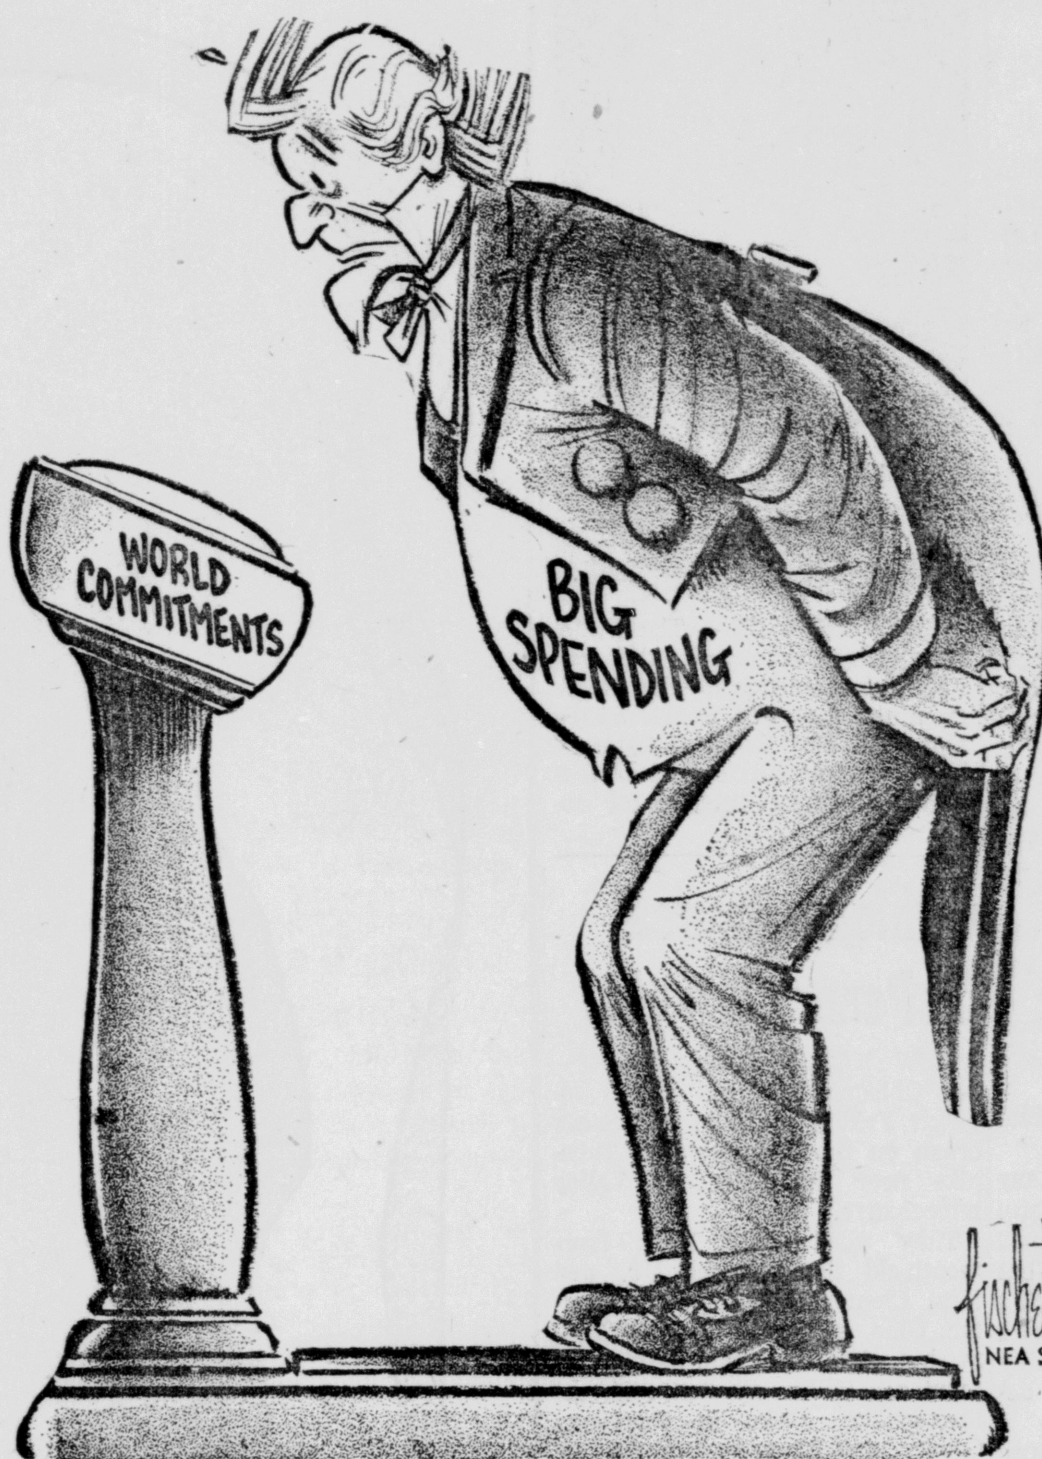

I am going to put away that pre-Christmas edition of The New Yorker until next July and look at it again then, to make sure. In the meantime, Merry Christmas everybody. What did you do with your stuff?

One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all. — Ephesians 4:6.

One sole God; One sole ruler—His Law; One sole interpreter of that law — Humanity. — Mazzini.

WASHINGTON — Spurred by the armaments race, an intensive search is under way for civilian inventions which can be used by the military.

Leading the hunt for everything from dehydrated meat to a portable death ray is the National Inventors Council, formed in Washington in 1940 by the secretary of commerce as a link between the inventive public and the armed forces.

By and large, the 24 private citizens and three military men who compose the council today are famous inventors themselves, though their ranks also include a theatrical producer and an advertising executive.

Many of them know what it is to be called a "crackpot," and they are sympathetic with the problems of the part-time inventor. During World War II, the council passed along to the Army and Navy hundreds of usable ideas but in recent years its mail has fallen off.

"The government isn't getting one-third of the ideas that it needs from the general public," reports John C. Green, director of the Office of Technical Services and the council's executive director.

He points out that while government-sponsored research contributes much to our ability to stay ahead in an arms race, most of the revolutionary inventions of war have come from lone-wolf civilians.

The revolver was invented by the civilian Colt, the first rifle with interchangeable parts by civilian Eli Whitney and the World War II M-1 rifle by Garand, a civilian. Other civilians thought of the screw propeller, smokeless powder and the torpedo.

To encourage civilians to submit more ideas to the government, the council has embarked on a new campaign.

First, it has brought up to date a list of 300 technical problems faced by the military. Actually, it is a list of things which the army would like somebody to invent and the council will mail it to anyone who requests it.

Among the needed inventions are a photographic film which will snap a high speed picture by moonlight, a chemical to make earth as hard as concrete and a nonmagnetic compass for a foot soldier.

Scores of inventions are needed for the subzero weather of the Arctic, where conventional batteries, auto heaters and even can openers refuse to work. The council even wants a death ray which will be effective at 500 yards.

Mr. Green emphasizes that while the council will take a look at the plans for any invention, no matter how fantastic, it refuses to accept chemicals or models. One inventor mailed a bomb containing itching powder to the Commerce Department which was so effective that the men who unpacked it were scratching for days.

The council members who set policy for the staff represent every branch of science. Chairman is Dr. Charles F. Kettering, of General Motors, a onetime schoolteacher who invented the self-starter and auto ignition system in an old barn. Vice chairman is Dr. Oliver Buckley, head of Bell Laboratories, and secretary is Lawrence Langner, president of the Theater Guild and an international patent attorney.

Newest member is Alex Osborn, a New York advertising executive and president of the creative education foundation.

Mr. Osborn is the inventor of "brainstorming," a technique for getting people to think up solutions to problems in an atmosphere free from criticism.

He claims that a certain percentage of the ideas he gets through "brainstorming" are pretty good ones and he plans to use his system to find answers to military questions.

In a recent pilot experiment, he "Brainstormed" engineers attending an alumni meeting of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 90 minutes, Mr. Osborn said, he had obtained more than 300 solutions to military problems.

The council feels that it might offer more incentive to inventors if it could make cash awards for ideas which contribute to our military preparedness.

A bill was introduced on the opening day of Congress to authorize such awards but until it is passed the council can do little more than push a good idea into the right military channel.

However, it keeps all submissions confidential and does its best to prevent the infringement of inventors' rights.

Freedom's Knights

By RAYMOND MOLEY

It hardly needs saying that the desperate efforts of the Hungarians who faced the ruthless, brutal guns of the Communists on the streets of Budapest will live long in history.

Almost as heroic have been the efforts of refugees from the terror to find freedom in the West.

But also worthy of note is the hastily improvised aid that compassionate people have given to those who have been seeking escape.

Foremost among those who have helped are some hundreds of members of the Knights of Malta — mostly Austrian and German — a Roman Catholic lay order founded nine centuries ago to offer aid in the Crusades.

SHOULDER to shoulder with them through this bitter cold winter are others, mostly young men from many nations. There are Norwegian law students, Swiss medical students, English theological students, English teenagers giving up their vacations from schools to help, and a number of young men and women from well-known families in Britain.

In the accounts of this oddly assorted group there appears the name of Alex France, an American Fulbright scholar from Cleveland.

Among the British who have been serving on that dangerous frontier of liberty is Viscount Astor, who has come to the United States to tell the story of this operation and to gather for the Knights of Malta some greatly needed voluntary financial aid. It is from him that I have learned the dramatic account of the activities on the frontier.

The Austro-Hungarian frontier is the only gateway available to the Hungarians to the free nations of the West. The southern part of that frontier is mountainous and offers a long, indirect route into Austria.

Up near the Danube at the North is the customary passage to the West. Needless to say, these more traveled routes are closely guarded by the Communists.

There is, however, a desolate spot near the Austrian town of Andau through which hundreds have made a perilous way to safety. The hardships involved in taking this route are unbelievably great.

PARALLEL WITH the border and some hundreds of feet within Hungary is a canal. The bridge which carried the road over the canal has been destroyed and there is no way to cross except to swim. The crossing must be made by night.

At this spot the Knights of Malta and others have been active for weeks. The bitter cold of the crossing has taken many lives, including those of several babies. Pneumonia has been common among those who came through the water. The rescuers have dared Communist fire and seizure to help the refugees, and Communist fire has killed refugees even on the Austrian side of the border.

The resources of the rescuers are inadequate to meet the endless stream of those seeking safety.

Those who have worked in this perilous business have, however, encouraging words from inside the iron curtain. Something close to chaos prevails there.

The bureaucracy and the military are unbelievably corrupt. The news that seeps through from Russia itself is that things are also very bad there.

In short, there is evidence that the collapse of the regime may come sooner than we expected.

ONE FACT that impresses me more than anything else is that among these fugitives, especially the young, there is abundant evidence that human nature has once more triumphed over "scientific" efforts to change its instincts and character.

We have heard much about the alteration of the character and loyalties of a generation by Communist brain-washing. Nothing of the sort has happened.

Iron discipline can suppress a people for a time but ultimately the instinct for self-expression will break out. Men will still die to be free.

The Knights of Malta need help in their merciful activities at that grim border. Contributions should be sent to Lord Astor, 535 Fifth Avenue, New York City, and checks should be made payable to Catholic Relief Services.

The Ground Hog Reaches U. N.

Assembly President — Gentlemen our agenda places before us today a question gravely affecting peace. I refer to Resolution Number 8037 on the ground hog. There is at this very moment serious conflict between those supporting this animal and those opposed. I call on the delegate from the U.S.S.R.

Soviet Delegate — Mr. President, as is well known, the ground hog is a creation of the ruling circles of the United States. But for the support of these interests, the ground hog, which is a vicious, carnivorous animal carrying on a vast underground campaign for the purpose of dividing the people in their attitude toward weather, would have no standing. The U.S.S.R. has always stood for a reduction of ground hogs but has been opposed by the capitalistic world and its absurd demands for aerial inspections.

THE U.S.S.R. is for long winters, extreme cold and plenty of ice. The people are entitled to bad weather, but the Wall Street cliques perpetuate this nefarious ground hog propaganda for selfish purposes. They wish to increase the sale of snow shovels without necessarily holding up an early demand for light underwear. Their purpose is to obscure the weather outlook, create dissension and promote hostility.

Krishna Menon — I rise merely to state that both the Free World and its opponents have certain ground hog attitudes which I can support. But India feels that the ground hog has definite rights, too. For this reason I shall abstain from any vote.

Mr. Lodge — I wish to say the United States will never relent in its championship of February 2, the woodchuck and the right of every human being to hope for a truthful weather forecast.

BRITISH DELEGATE — My government is in an odd position. From recent events it fears that anything it does may be repudiated by America. We are for the ground hog. We would consider any interference with it an aggressive act, and would proceed immediately to stop it. But I must confess to some fear that the United Nations might vote for a resolution forcing our capitulation.

ASSEMBLY PRESIDENT — I suggest that we hear from our trouble shooter, Mr. Hammarckjold.

Mr. Hammarckjold — It is my belief that if we destroy the ground hog it can create a vacuum. One vacuum at a time is plenty. So I propose that I take a trip through the woodchuck holes for data and facts. The U.N. has put me in many a hole. What difference can one more make to me?

MARSHAL GEORGI K. ZHUKOV of Russia rode a royal elephant in India the other day. . . . It is an open question whether the pachyderm or the marshal felt more out of character.

Potters Edge Salem Quakers 70-69 In Last Five Seconds

Foul Shot Decides Game

Salem Trails All The Way, Rallied Late

By MARK MILLER

Salem's Quakers suffered their third loss of the season last night as they were nipped in the last five seconds of the game when Bernie Allen made one of two gift shots to give East Liverpool a thrilling 70-69 victory before a bout 1,500 fans on the East Liverpool Court.

The Red and Black trailed most of the game and were 15 points down going into the last quarter. But suddenly the Quakers came storming back with great spirit to even the game, only to have an infraction of the rules charged against them which cost them the tilt.

Liverpool wasted no time in forging to the front as they led 18-12 at the end of the first quarter. By half time the Potters had built up a nine point margin, as they led 39-30. In the third stanza Liverpool seemingly turned the game into a rout as they increased their lead to 59-45.

SALEM TOOK 55 shots last night and made 22 for an even 40 per cent, and from the charity lane they meshed 22 of 32 tries for a 68.7 per cent.

In comparison the Potters attempted 62 shots from the field and tallied on 28 of these for a 45 per cent. From the gift circle they hit on 14 of 26 tries for a 53.8 per cent. The winners also outbounded Salem, clearing the boards 24 times compared to 19 for Salem.

Lou Slaby, a sophomore and reserve player, replaced big Bill Pauline after he fouled out late in the second quarter. Lou tallied three baskets and four fouls for 10 markers and looked very good on defense. On several occasions he out-rebounded big Phil Hayes, the 6-foot-4 inch center of the Potters.

MARK FENTON, playing his usually good brand of ball, meshed the nets for six fielders and six fouls for 18 points to lead the Quakers scoring parade, and he also was a standout on defense.

John Stephenson hit for five baskets and seven fouls for 17 markers, and John also played some good defensive ball.

Jim Meissner, who was guarded very closely managed five fielders for 10 markers. After a slow start, Meissner looked exceptionally good during the second half.

Ted Jackson and Bill Pauline rounded out the scoring with eight and six points respectively. Bernie Allen was making set shots, lay up shots and an assortment of other shots, as he scored nine baskets and five fouls for 23 markers for East Liverpool.

Bill English also put a damper on the Quakers' bid for victory, as he tallied nine baskets and four fouls for 22 markers. The two scored 45 of the Potters total output of 70 points.

SALEM LED 2-0 and that was the only time they held a margin during the game.

But here is an account of the last stanza in which they rallied, caught up and tied the game and then lost it.

Lou Slaby hit on two charity tosses, Jim Conrad hit on a push shot, for East Liverpool, Stephenson made two free throws, Fenton added two charity tosses, and Jackson tossed in three gift shots, and Salem trailed 61-54. Bernie made two fouls and a push shot and Liverpool led 65-54.

Slaby sank a lay up and Meissner and Jackson each added a foul shot. English scored a set shot and the score was Liverpool 67, Salem 59.

Then Fenton, Meissner and Stephenson each added a basket, and Salem trailed only 67-65. Allen pushed in two gift shots, and Stephenson sank a tie hand push shot and two fouls to tie the game up 69-69 with but five seconds remaining on the clock. Stephenson fouled Allen giving him two tries at the basket. Bernie missed the first one, and his second shot rolled over the front of the rim and into the basket to wrap up the game.

Salem is now 10 and three on the season, and the Potters are now nine and four. Officials for last night's encounter were Fred Rollason and William Holzworth.

Salem's next game is at home Tuesday against Youngstown Boardman.

Major Leagues Approve Big Boost In Players' Pensions

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league baseball today has a benefit-packed pension plan described by officials as unequalled anywhere.

And having met player demands for increased benefits—which include a whopping 75 per cent boost in monthly pension checks—it wouldn't be surprising if the American and National Leagues shelved a request for a raise in minimum salaries during their joint winter meeting today.

The players have asked that the present $6,000 minimum be increased to $7,500.

The sweeping advance in pension benefits was unanimously approved by the owners of the 16 major league clubs in separate meeting Friday.

They granted a minimum monthly pension of $88 and upped the maximum monthly check to $550. The new plan, awaiting a federal tax ruling before it goes into effect April 1, also includes a 50 per cent increase in insurance benefits and new disability and hospitalization benefits.

The retirement benefits are available at age 50 to players, coaches and trainers with at least five years service, who have contributed to the plan. They also may postpone collection of the pension checks until age 60 to 65, with additional bonuses.

Here's the way the old and new benefit scales at age 50 compare:

Years of Service	Old	New
5	$88	$50
10	$175	$100
20	$275	$100
30	$375	$100
40	$475	$100
50	$575	$100

A 10-year man can collect $275 a month by waiting until he's 60 to draw his benefits, and $350 a month if he waits until he's 65. A 20-year man can collect $450 at 60, or $550 at 65.

Only the first 10 years of major league service previously were considered in pension benefits, with no provision for a delay in collecting the monthly payments. Now a player receives $17.50 a month each year up to 10, and $10 a month for each additional year up to 20.

The plan is retroactive to include those eligible under pension benefits originated in 1947.

The pension fund gets its biggest contribution from TV-radio coverage of the World Series and all-star game and from gate receipts of the latter.

The participants contribute an average of $2 a day during the playing season. The old contribution was $1.50 average a day.

A total of 531 active players, coaches and trainers are members of the plan. And 421, now retired, have earned their benefits and will start collecting at retirement age. Nine former participants now are receiving pensions.

Rule Changes Voted Down In Pro Football

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—National Football League owners tackle two controversial problems today, the Players' Association and whether or not to expand to 14 clubs in 1958.

The owners fumbled through a long, arduous session Friday night in which numerous rule changes were proposed and after much debate, defeated. The result — the game remains the same.

A resolution praising George Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, as "the greatest asset sports has ever known," was the only other news coming out of the session.

The resolution, sponsored by Commissioner Bert Bell, apparently was a vote of confidence for Marshall in his squabble with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP has charged the Redskins' boss with discriminating against Negro players.

The commissioner will present to the owners the proposals of the Players Association as laid down by Representatives Kyle Rote and Norman Van Brocklin, assisted by Atty. Creighton Miller. Briefly, the players want a $5,000 minimum salary, an injury clause guaranteeing a full season's wages, certain expenses and a shorter training season.

Most of the owners are inclined to approve the association. The six clubs definitely on the record as in favor are almost unanimous in the opinion that the players already are receiving most of the things they want. The attitude is, "if they want an official association, let them have it."

On the subject of expansion, the leaning seems to be toward voting to add two teams to the league in 1958, if a survey at that time indicates competition among present members is fairly even, and there are enough players to go around.

Friday, the city of Buffalo, represented by Patrick J. McGruder Jr., presented its case for an NFL franchise. McGruder, appearing at the behest of Commissioner Bell, told the owners that Buffalo could become the "Milwaukee" of professional football.

Seven other cities reportedly are interested in professional football. Bell identified them as Minneapolis, Kansas City, Miami, Louisville, Denver and Houston. The league would provide players for new franchises by giving them top draft choices at the annual player selection meeting.

The owners also settled once and for all last year's rharbbs over the use of electronic devices either from the sidelines or in helmets. They are barred. It will be remembered that the Cleveland Browns used sideline-to-quarterback telephones in 1956, until the New York Giants came up with a device that intercepted the Browns' messages.

Logart Whips Yama Bahama Wins Unanimous 10-Round Decision

NEW YORK (AP)—Isaac Logart, a Cuban with a burning desire to wear the welterweight title robes once won by his fellow countryman, Kid Gavilan, has sped past another opponent.

Friday night it was Yama Bahama, a 153-pounder from Bimini in the Bahamas who is neither a full fledged welter or middleweight. The decision for Logart was unanimous at Madison Square Garden after 10 rounds.

"Yama wanted to get me against the ropes, I wanted him out in the middle," said Logart in explanation of his strategy in Friday night's bout. "I got him to miss. And I beat him to the punch."

Bobby Melnick, Bahama's manager, didn't quite agree. He thought his boy deserves the fight "because my guy did all the work."

Logart, 147½, was called the winner by Judge Artie Aidala 7-2-1. Judge Harold Barnes 5-4-1 and referee Barney Felix 6-3-1. The AP card also had it for Logart 7-2-1. Bahama, 153½, tried to take advantage of his six-pound edge by rushing Logart to the ropes and banging away at the body. Although he forced the action most of the time, Logart made him miss often and kept beating him to the punch with his eye-catching flurries.

About 1,500 waded through snow and slush to see the nationally televised bout which was regarded as an even money bet.

The Bobcats tossed restraint to the winds in the final stanza as they scored 30 markers while holding their hapless opponents to 17.

Jack Brudery was the big gun for Greenford, scoring 26 points. Jerry Hendricks tallied 18 markers for the Bobcats and Dave Hiner, 15.

Ohlin led the attack of the losers with 16 points.

AP To Award BTrophy To TopGrid Team

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Associated Press Friday night announced it will award a huge bronze trophy to future collegiate football champions, and Oklahoma quickly bid for it over the banquet table.

The new Associated Press trophy will replace the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell Trophy, retired by the defending national champion Sooners.

Like the O'Donnell Trophy awarded by Notre Dame, the Associated Press Trophy will become the permanent possession of the team which wins the national title three times.

Ted Smits, Associated Press sports editor, announced the new trophy and told 600 cheering Oklahoma fans: "I have a feeling, a very strong feeling that I'll probably be back here next year."

Smits was principal speaker at the banquet Friday night when Greg Rice, New York City, president of the Notre Dame Alumni club, gave Oklahoma permanent possession of the O'Donnell trophy. This was the Sooners' third football crown in seven years and their second straight.

The Sooners have won 40 straight games since a 22-21 loss to Notre Dame and a 7-7 tie with Pittsburgh in 1953. They led the nation in total offense, rushing and scoring last year, and finished second in total defense.

Oklahoma became the third team to retire a trophy since the program started 33 years ago. Notre Dame retired two and Minnesota one.

The AP trophy, like previous ones, will be awarded annually to the team finishing atop the Associated Press football poll.

Player Doesn't Feel Good, Tallies 57 Points

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Spunky Don Fields didn't feel too well Friday night. He thought he might feel better if he played a little basketball.

So he started for Port William against Blanchester. By halftime, he had scored 41 points.

But he didn't feel much better. He dropped out during the third quarter and rested up a bit. Then he re-entered the game and scored another 16 points.

All told, the ailing 5-foot-9 sophomore contributed a total of 57 points to Port William's 114-75 victory over Blanchester. Fields felt fine after the game was safely tucked away.

Counting his healthy days, the youth has scored a total of 520 points for Port William during 17 games this season for an average of 30.6 points a game.

Louisville Ekes Win Over Leetonia

Leetonia took an early 18-8 lead, and stretched its margin to 35-22 by intermission. But the Louisville quintet came storming back and cut the deficit to 44-43 in favor of Leetonia by the end of the third stanza.

Larry Stump led the victors with 24 markers, and Al Kornbau tallied 20 points for the losers.

North Lima stepped off to a 22-11 first quarter lead, but Canfield narrowed the gap 31-25 by intermission. The eventual losers went ahead 42-40 by the end of the third quarter, but their rally sapped their strength and North Lima eked out the win.

Rich Brinzenhofe was high scorer for the winners with 21 points. Roger Williams paced the Canfield attack with 16 markers.

The Canfield reserves won the preliminary game of the evening 48-32.

Canfield's next game will be tonight at Jackson-Milton.

Goshen Beats Bluffton In Scoring Spree

By The Associated Press

Chances are there are some stiff necks today among those who watched invading Goshen of Indiana beat Bluffton Friday night.

Spectators—if they could swivel their necks fast enough—saw 205 points scored. Of the total, 57—or approximately a point every 10½ seconds—came in the last 10 minutes.

Goshen led all the way and came out on top, 103-102.

In other Ohio court action, Akron stomped Kenyon 92-55, Fenn outclassed Cedarville 73-69, Ohio Northern glided past Hiram 81-66, and Wooster routed Ashland, 119-69.

At Akron, the Akron Zips held Dan Bumstead of Kenyon, an Ohio Conference scoring leader, to eight points. Bumstead did not get a single field goal. His eight points were on free throws.

Fenn was tied up 34-34 with Cedarville at halftime but moved out front in the second half, paced by Frank Mignoli who scored 23 points. John Entner led the Yellow Jackets with 15 points. The game was played at Cedarville.

Ohio Northern's victory over Hiram at Ada was an easy one. Northern led throughout the tilt with a margin of as much as 20 points, while Hiram's top man was Jim Doland with 19.

Wooster set a new school scoring record in its home court win over Ashland. The previous school record was set against Ashland in 1953 when the Scots scored 118 points. Danny Thomas led the Wooster assault with 13 field goals and 27 points. Ron Pratt was high for Ashland with 22.

North Carolina Star May Play For Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Bill Hathaway, former North Carolina basketball star, may be playing for Dayton University one of these days—if he can pull his grades up.

Hathaway, former 6-11 center for the Tar Heels, has enrolled at Dayton's night school to make up courses he flunked at North Carolina, where he was a member of the nation's No. 1 cage squad.

Dayton Coach Tom Blackburn said Hathaway enrolled voluntarily Thursday. If he passes his night school courses satisfactorily, Blackburn said, Hathaway will be admitted to regular school next fall.

He would not be eligible for varsity basketball at Dayton, however, until the 1958-59 season. But he also could play an additional season with the Flyers in 1959-60.

Blackburn said North Carolina officials told him by telephone that they have no objection to Hathaway's enrolling here.

82-58 Win Is 11th In 12 Starts

Quaker Reserves Rip E. Liverpool

By BOB JULIAN

After a slow first half the Salem High School reserves took hold and routed the East Liverpool JV's to the tune of 82-58 last night on the Potter hardwoods.

The win for Salem was their 11 in 12 starts and the loss brought East Liverpool's mark to 10-3 for the season.

The Quakers, under the direction of Coach Karl Zellers, were on the beam at the foul line as they netted 78 per cent of their shots, hitting on 30 of 38 attempts. In the initial half the Zellersmen tried 17 from the charity stripe and pumped in 14 for a sizzling 82 per cent.

EAST LIVERPOOL also connected on most of their shots from the free throw line, netting 52 per cent of their tries by dropping in 12 of 23. Hitting on eight of 17 for an average of 46 was the Potters' story at the foul stripe in the first 16 minutes.

The Potters jumped out to a 2-0 lead but the Quakers soon tied it up on a two-pointer by Darryl Adams. The Blue and White then hit on a foul try to move them into a 3-2 lead and never fell behind again in a wild first stanza which saw the Potters outscore the Zellersmen 21-17.

To open the second frame, Woody Deitch of Salem connected on a jump shot to cut the margin to 19-21 but the Potters were paced by Treleven and Adkins to a 28-21 lead with four and a half minutes left in the period. From this point on the Quakers took command of the tilt and pushed in seven points to tie up the ball game at 28-all with four minutes remaining.

LOU SLABY, RETURNING to form after a poor first quarter, put the Red and Black into the lead for the first time, 30-28 on a tip-in and the Zellersmen never fell behind again.

In that period the Salemites outscored the Potters 21-13 to take a slim 38-34 advantage at intermission.

At the outset of the third stanza, East Liverpool's Adkins sank two foul shots to cut the Salem lead to 38-36. But the Quakers were not to be denied victory as they poured in six straight tallies to move out to a 44-36 margin early in the frame and coast to a 56-46 advantage at the three quarter mark on the shooting of Deitch, Adams and Slaby, along with the accurate foul shooting of John Sturgeon.

IN THE FOURTH period Coach Zellers substituted freely, but the Quakers had their biggest eight minutes of the evening as they caged 26 markers to 12 for the Potters and coasted in to their 11th win, 82-58.

Darryl Adams sparked the Zellersmen in the frame with 10 markers. Freshman Danny Krichbaum gave another good account of himself, playing three quarters and pumped in eight markers.

Leading the game scoring parade for the Red and Black were Adams, Slaby who pulled down 18 rebounds for the Quakers, Sturgeon and Deitch, each hit in the double figure column, with totals of 24, 17, 12 and 12, respectively.

Kempe and Treleven paced the Potters with 18 and 12 markers, respectively. In the shooting department, the Zellersmen attempted 61 field goals and connected on 26 for a percentage of 43, while the Blue and White tried 73 fielders and dumped in 23 for 31 per cent.

SALEM — 82 Adams 24, 10; Platt 2, 2, 6; Slaby 5, 7, 17; Sturgeon 1, 10, 12; Deitch 5, 2, 12; Krichbaum 3, 2, 8; Schmidt 1, 1, 2; Treleven 5, 2, 12; Dorsey 3, 2, 8; Kelley 3, 0, 6; Kemp 2, 0, 4; Peters 1, 0, 2; Allen 1, 0, 2; Salem 21, 13, 12, 22-58; East Liverpool 12, 13, 12, 23-58.

Since I'm new in the league as a manager I won't hazard a guess as to our team's pennant chances, but we all start even on opening day. We feel that Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Milwaukee will be the teams to beat based on last year's performance, but baseball is a funny game and you never know what it has in store for you.

Marusic Holds Slim Lead At Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Milton Marusic is a professional golfer unused to the spotlight which dwelt on him today.

For most of his many years as a pro he has concentrated on the problems of country club members as a resident club teacher.

But today he was the top man going into the third round of the $15,000 Phoenix Open Tournament at the Arizona Country Club.

Marusic, 40, tall, slender and friendly, has never won a major tournament. The best he did was a fourth in a Savannah, Ga., Open one year.

His 4-under par 66 Friday, coupled with a 69 in the first round, gave him a score of 135, five under for the distance, and a precarious one-stroke lead over his nearest challengers.

Marusic, of Czechoslovakia extraction, is on a winter holiday from his club at Webster Groves in the suburbs of St. Louis.

Deadlocked at 136 teeing off this morning were five players. They were Gene Littler of San Diego, ex-amateur champion and now a pro, Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., Don January, Lampasas, Tex., North Dakota's Paul O'Leary from Bismarck and Al Bolding of Erindale, Canadian PGA champion.

Rounding out a golfing gallery of comparative new faces in the 137 bracket were Bob Inman of Detroit and another former United States Amateur titlist and now a pro, Sam Arzetta of Rochester, N. Y.

Columbiana Planning Commission Meets

COLUMBIANA — The village planning commission had its first meeting Thursday evening in city hall to discuss plans and prepare for active work.

Franklin Powers of the planning commission in Poland, which has had such an organization for 25 years, and who is a member of the Mahoning county regional planning commission, was present by invitation and gave suggestions from his experience in planning.

The Columbiana commission, set up at a meeting of council Jan. 8, consists of five members with Mayor Calvin as chairman by virtue of his office, Councilman Charles Fisher elected by council, and three appointed by the mayor, Robert Powers for six years, Allan White for four years and Ray Spiker for two years.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN, active and retired, had their annual tur-ey dinner at the American Legion home Thursday evening with 55 present, including Mayor E. L. Calvin and Chief of Police William McGuckin. The dinner was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of Firestone Post.

Gayl Gloss, secretary of the fire department, presided for the program, arranged by Harry Eberhardt. Charles Peters, humorist, of Minerva was the speaker, and two safe-driving films, "America's Crossroads," were shown.

Firestone American Legion Post will attend Sunday the 10:45 a.m. service in Grace Evangelical and Reformed church in observance of four chaplains Sunday honoring the memory of the chaplains of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths, who went down with their ship during World War II. Members of the post will meet at the church at 10:30.

THE GREEN THUMB Garden Club met at Young's restaurant Thursday afternoon, heard reports for the year, read the constitution and discussed plans. Mrs. E. T. Coyle, the new president, presided. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Joseph Woodward, 370 N. Main St., with Miss Estella Esterly in charge of the program.

James Bookwalter will be the speaker at a service in observance of youth Sunday in the Presbyterian church at 10:45 a.m. Sunday. Doris Gross will preside and the junior choir will sing. The Senior High Fellowship will meet at the church at 6:30 p.m. to go to a youth rally at St. Jacob's Evangelical and Reformed church, north of Lisbon.

Suzanne Nelson, Darlene Brittain and John Longworth will be speakers at a youth Sunday service in the Methodist church at 10:45 a.m. tomorrow.

Columbiana Catholic Women's Guild will meet at Valley Golf Club at 8 p.m. Wednesday, when Russell Lindsay will present a program of Dixieland and ragtime music. Hostesses will be Grace Austin and Eleanor Poirier.

Boy Run Over Twice By Car, Is Uninjured

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Sled-rider Selmer Red Star, 8, of Pryor, Mont., was run over twice by an auto and suffered no apparent injury.

Walter Willett, Indiana Bureau special officer, gave this account: Fred Bird Hat of Pryor didn't know the boy was behind the car. He stopped to turn around, the child slid from a sled and the backing vehicle's rear wheel passed over Selmer's lower abdomen.

Witnesses yelled. The driver, thinking he was about to strike something, started forward. The same wheel passed over the same part of the child's body again.

WINS MID-EAST REVIEW — The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees voted 30-0 for a sweeping review of U. S. Middle East policy over the past 10 years. ## Williams Denies He'll Wed Model; She Gets Angry

NEW YORK (AP) — Model Nelva More has fired some verbal fast balls at baseball slugger Ted Williams, who vigorously denied reports of their impending marriage.

Miss More's stepmother, Mrs. Fran More, said Thursday that Nelva, 24, and Ted, 38, would marry "in a day or two."

Nelva, beyond saying she and the diamond star would be married, refused to discuss details.

Friday in Boston, Williams told newsmen: "Nothing to it, nothing to it," adding:

"You know I've been initiated into that society once before. You have heard the phrase 'Had it. Well, that's me.'"

Williams' previous marriage ended in divorce in May, 1955.

Miss More, told of Williams' reaction to the reports, said Friday night that Williams had proposed but that she had given no definite answer. She said she had plane reservations, which she canceled, to fly to Boston to meet Williams. "After his comments today," said Miss More, "I am giving a definite answer. I am not going to marry him and I would not."

"As for his remarks, I think it was hardly a gentlemanly thing to do."

Miss More, who had a part in the Broadway play, "The Fifth Season," said she had known Williams since he got out of the Marine Corps in 1954.

Former East Goshen Man Faces 3 Counts

Edwin L. Stanley, formerly of East Goshen, will face two counts for embezzlement and one for forgery in the estate of Foster H. Hathaway before the Mahoning County grand jury which convenes Feb. 11.

Judge Harold B. Doyle will be in charge of the criminal division of the Common Pleas Court.

Thursday Judge Doyle refused to lower the $35,000 bond under which Stanley is being kept in jail. Atty. W. Glenn Osborne, co-counsel for Stanley, had asked Wednesday at a hearing before Judge Doyle that the bond be reduced to $5,000 to enable Stanley to get out of jail.

Stanley's properties are so encumbered that bond money cannot be raised on them. Stanley has been held in jail since he was arrested Jan. 5 at his home.
